DECEMBER 6

INMED Partnerships for Children Names New Board Members

Ashburn, VA, December 6, 2010 —INMED Partnerships for Children is pleased to announce the appointment of Mr. Wendell Chambliss and Ms. Katie MacFarlane to its board of directors.

"It is with great pleasure that we welcome Wendell and Katie to the board of directors," said Dr. Linda Pfeiffer, president and CEO of INMED. "They bring vital local perspectives as residents of the DC Metro area, and both have demonstrated a commitment to secure good nutrition, good health and stable homes for the children we serve, both around the world and in our own community."

INMED Partnerships for Children is an international humanitarian organization that rescues children from the immediate and irreversible harm of disease, hunger, abuse, neglect or violence, and prepares them to share a brighter future for themselves and the next generation. INMED is headquartered in Loudoun County, Virginia and has offices in California, as well as Brazil, Peru, South Africa and the Caribbean.

Mr. Chambliss is vice president and deputy general counsel for mission and anti-predatory lending for Freddie Mac. Among other responsibilities, he provides legal and regulatory advice regarding Freddie Mac's statutory Charter and affordable housing goal regulations in addition to being involved in the management of the legal division, and is an active participant in senior management committee meetings and decision-making. Mr. Chambliss has 20 years of legal experience, including 10 years on Capitol Hill, working in both the U.S. Senate and the House of Representatives as legislative counsel and legislative director to members of the Alabama Delegation.

"As a resident of Loudoun County, I am excited about the opportunity to work with INMED to help and uplift our neighbors," said Mr. Chambliss. "Linda and the INMED team have done a terrific job, both locally and internationally, in addressing successfully many of the ills that plague the least among us. I look forward to being part of an ongoing effort to help give our children a jump start on a better future."

Ms. MacFarlane is managing partner of SmartPharma, a pharmaceutical consulting firm specializing in product commercialization for emerging biotechnology companies. During her more than 21 years in the pharmaceutical industry she has worked in clinical development, marketing and sales management. Ms. MacFarlane has worked as a senior-level executive for the Parke-Davis division of Warner-Lambert and for Warner Chilcott, and her experience spans multiple therapeutic areas
